

CALL TO ARTISTS

Vita Art Center Presents

“GAMES PEOPLE PLAY II “, 2011

A juried art exhibition showing collaborative works based on the theme “Games People Play.” The works must be a collaboration that consists of two or more artists working together on one piece.

The theme “Games People Play” is open to the artists’ interpretation.

In 2009 three artists came together to create a collaborative body of work called “Games people Play.” This particular series of mixed media works was based on childhood games. The process of working together was a unique, challenging and creatively rewarding experience and the show was very well received. Many artists had questions about the process of working collaboratively and expressed interest in experiencing it for themselves which is how the idea of a group show was born.
